As a rule man's a fool;
When it's hot he wants it cool;
When it's cool he wants it hot—Always wanting what is not;
Never wanting what he's got.
As a rule, man's a fool.

As a rule, woman's wise;
When she can't get what she wants,
Then she cries;
Man cannot withstand her tears,
So he "gives up" to the dears.
As a rule, woman's wise;
When she can't get what she wants,
Then she cries.

The aged general, desirous of planting sentiments, patriotic and material in the children's breast on Decoration Day, said warmly, with the appropriate gestures:

"What thought would spring at once into your minds if you saw flags and banners waving over a battle field?"

A little boy piped shrilly:
"I'd think the wind was blowing, sir."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A teacher asked for a sentence with the word "got" in it.
A little girl just over from Germany replied: "Got in Himmel," altogether unconscious she had said anything unusual.—Exchange.

Mr. Dollars, who had "broken into secrets," was often apt to be in his ignorance. One evening he attended a soiree where the subject of authors came up.

"You remember that quotation from Shakespeare?" said a young man, to include Mr. Dollars in the conversation—"one of William Shakespeare's plays," he added kindly, to help the old man along.

"Oh—Bill Shakespeare!" exclaimed Mr. Dollars, blunderingly. "So he's taken to writing plays, has he? Why I went to school with Bill."

"And George Sand?" put in the war of the party. "You know the celebrated George Sand?"

Mr. Dollars dismissed the query with a wave of the hand and a careless "My room-mate at school."—

A fussy, tactless fellow standing in the jam about the Soldier's and Sailors' monument in New York on Decoration Day remarked grumpily and sensationally: "All this fuss and show is being made for dead soldiers. I, rather be a live jackass than a dead soldier." His words were addressed to an utter stranger, a splendid old gentleman standing at his left. Turning on him the latter said contemptuously: "You certainly embody your wish. You are to be congratulated it is seldom that a man is what he wishes rather than."—Kansas City Star.

A florist of Philadelphia was one day making the rounds of his properties near the city when he was approached by a young man, who applied to him for work.

"I am sorry," said the florist, "but have all the help I need. I have nothing for you to do."

"Sir," said the young man, with a polite bow, "if you only knew how very little work it would take to occupy me!"—Success.

"Great Scott! what do you call these, Helen?" asked Dan Foss. He was gazing curiously at an elaborately garnished platter, which held two tiny fish.

"You want smelts. I didn't know how big they were; I never heard of smelts in the West. You know I got two mackerel last week, and they made a nice little meal, so I thought two smelts would be enough. Odd fish man's been so sarcastic since that day I phoned for a halibut and he explained a halibut was too large for two people—it occasionally weighed 100 pounds. Today he began to be funny about two smelts. I got freely dismissed and hung up the receiver.
The boy had come before I'd looked at them. I knew right away, Dan, I had made a miserable blunder; only I boiled eggs, you see, to make out a meal."

"All right, little woman," laughed Dan. "They're a nice appetizer. Only, next time order twenty anyway; fifteen's about my limit on smelts."— Success.

The big bell in the city hall tower had just banged forth the noon hour, and the office buildings were emptying throngs of workers into the street to fill the lunch rooms.

In an elaborate office, seated in a large chair, with his feet comfortably resting on the edge of the manager's desk, was Plugsy, to office boy of Jankorth and Co., brokers. His head was cocked on one side, and with evident relish he was puffing a huge cigar which his employer had neglected to finish.

Suddenly the door opened and Mr.
Whiff, a client of the firm, rushed in.
"Where's Mr. Jankorth?" he demanded, excitedly.

"W-a's that?" said Plugsy, slowly removing the cigar from the far corner of his mouth.

"I want Mr. Jankorth right away.
Where is he?" repeated Whiff.

Just then the bell of a fire-engine clanged slowly, and Plugsy leisurely rose and walked to the window.

"Geet!" he said thoughtfully, "people do get skinned of them fire carts, all right, all right." Turning around he continued: "Boss ain't in. I'm running the business just now. Want any quotations, or—"

"No, you idiot!" yelled the client.
"Where has he gone—downstairs?"

"Yep."

"Will he be back after lunch?"

"Naw," yawned the future firm;
"that's what he went out after!"—

The Charming Woman is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires; neatness and clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. Guaranteed at

WHOLESALE PRODUCE MARKET.

(Quotations Furnished by the Empire Produce Company.)

There has been a slight falling off in the wholesale produce market in the last few days except for spring chickens and ucks, which are slightly higher with a strong demand. The price of eggs shows a decrease of 7 the demand is good. Turkeys are quoted at several cents lower, but these are holding up fairly well with a fair demand.

Long Live the King is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throat after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by W. B.

Barbers Sensitive to Height.

"I heard something new in the barbering business this morning," said the gray-headed man. "I am occupying a room on the top floor of a skyscraping apartment hotel. This morning I sent for a barber to come up and shave me. He came, but when he saw to what an altitude he had attained he looked uneasy."

"Would it inconvenience you to come down to the regular barber shop?" he asked.

"I answered that it would not particularly put me out, but that I would like to know the reason for his request."

"The fact is," he said, "I never like to shave anybody at this distance above the ground. No barber likes to.
We seem to be particularly sensitive to height. It makes us nervous. Most barbers will not undertake a job above a certain number of feet in the air. Of course, if you insist, I will shave you here, but you would probably get a better shave ten floors below this one."

"Well, just out of natural curiosity I refused to humor the fellow's whim. As a result he nearly cut my throat. Whether he did it through nervousness, as he claimed, or pure customers of his own, I don't know.

Whatever it was, that is a peculiarity of barbers that I'd like to have explained."—New York Sun.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped this brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." Hoffman Drug Co. and City
